

Madison: Your Value-Added Partner in Customer Service Driven Distribution

A performance proven warehousing and integrated logistics specialist serving a host of leading commercial and industrial markets nationwide, Madison Warehouse Corporation provides customer-focused distribution operations in St. Louis, Fort Worth, Chicago, Baltimore and Decatur (IL). These state-of-the-art warehousing/inventory management facilities add up to over 3 million square feet of strategically placed space for Madison's fast growing customer base. For your company, this concentration of strengths at the heart of America's foremost manufacturing, distributing and consuming zones means quicker access to more suppliers and faster response to more lucrative markets – a strong, value-added advantage in today's hotly competitive business arena.

Principal among Madison's distribution service capabilities are Third party Logistics Programs for numerous and diverse customers with warehousing, inventory management, transportation and value-added support requirements similar to yours; aggressive, front-running competitors involved in the production and marketing of food/grocery products, health/beauty aids, paper, beverage containers, home/garden products, specialized chemicals, electronics, industrial parts and a variety of consumer products to name but a few. Madison's customer-tailored services run the gamut from supply-line management, stocking level coordination, product reconfiguration, pick and pack, sub-assembly, repackaging and JIT order fulfillment...

Every custom engineered facility and service within the Madison logistics network is linked into a central, finely-tuned operational system supported by multi-million dollar investments in people, distribution programs and information technology. Your inventory is entrusted to distribution professionals with in-depth experience utilizing product and data management systems tailored to your specific needs. This assures unparalleled accuracy in the accounting of on-hand inventory, handling of specialty products and the recording of every aspect of merchandise flow. Computer technology is customized to provide you with real-time inventory reporting, order status and deployment schedules. Madison's network of integrated capabilities assures you of consistent, uninterrupted logistics support through every link of your supply chain.

Now's the time to join the growing number of companies that are making Madison their value-added distribution and logistics partner.
